Flextrans Service

Flextrans is UTA's ADA Paratransit Service for riders who have a disability that prevents them from making some or all of their trips on fixed route buses. There are two types of services offered- Flex routes and Para routes. Flex routes follow a fixed route, but can deviate up to 3/4 mile off route to pick up passengers. Para routes are curb-to-curb, so it requires you to find addresses throughout the valley. Flextrans Bus Operators are required to assist passengers on and off the vehicles, secure their wheelchairs, and assist with seat belt securement. Due to the nature of our service, this job is very physical. You must be able to kneel down, bend over and push, at times, heavy weight into place. As service providers, you are required to have extensive interaction with our riders. You will also be required to work around the service animals (which may not be limited to dogs) who accompany some clients. Attendance at work is crucial not only to UTA, but to your peers and clients as well.

Extra-Board & Regular Operator Schedules

The 'Extra-Board' refers to Operators who do not have regular shifts. These Operators work varying hours each day to fill in when Regular Operators are sick, on vacation, or when there is other work available. As an Extra-Board Paratransit Operator, you would not receive your schedule until 5:00 p.m. the day before your shift. Please see the sample schedule below and FAQs for additional information. You become a Regular Paratransit Operator through seniority and availability; it may take between 3 - 5 years to become a Regular Paratransit Operator. If you become a Regular Operator you would know exactly what you are working every day until the next shift bid, at which time you would bid for a new shift for the next four months.

A large portion of our customers use our service to get to and from work each day. To accommodate commuters there is heavy demand in the peak AM and PM hours. Because of this, there is little work available during the mid-day hours when ridership is low. Therefore, most of our Operators work split shifts, where they go out on a route in the morning, then have an unpaid break, then return in the afternoon/evening for another route.

Extra-Board Operators bid on what is called a 'window' of time. Windows are 15 hours in length, and start as early as 4:30 a.m. and end as late as 11:30 p.m. If you bid on a window that starts at 4:30 a.m. your 'window' is over at 7:30 p.m. This means that you can be worked any time between those hours, though you likely will not work the entire window; you will most likely work a split shift within your window. UTA makes every attempt to schedule you within your window, but if you are scheduled to work outside your window you are paid overtime. The window will remain the same, but work hours within that window will continue to change daily.

The sample schedules below are the types of hours you could expect to work as a Flextrans Extra-Board Operator. Split shifts, as seen with Operators #1 and #2, are most common. Operator #1 has to report to the Meadowbrook garage at 4:57 am, where they will pick up a bus and drive until that shift ends at 2:45 pm at the 3500 S Redwood Road bus stop. They can then use the transit system or get a ride back to the Meadowbrook garage to pick up their car. Their next shift of the day starts at 4:21 pm on Central garage, and ends at 6:05 at the Central garage. *Operators may be paid $5 travel allowance per day if they start or end a shift at a bus stop or TRAX station.

Occasionally Operators will have a day where they work three splits, as seen in the sample schedule for Operator #3. We also have what is called a report shift, as seen in the sample schedule for Operator #4. On the report shift below, Operator #4 is to report to the garage at 1:00, and basically wait to see if they are needed for a route. If another Operator is unable to make their shift, Operator #4 will take that Operators shift and his/her end time will most likely not be the 5:00 listed on the schedule, as they will be out driving on a route. If other Operators make all of their scheduled shifts and there is no work for Operator #4 to take, Operator #4's shift will end at the scheduled time of 5:00 and they will be paid for the time they spent at the garage.

*Actual Operator schedules are in military time

This position can be challenging for many- days off are not consecutive, schedules change daily, and Operators are expected to work split shifts. Bus Operators are expected to be on time to every shift, and we have a strict no-fault policy on punctuality. We understand this schedule is not for everyone. If you think this may not be the position for you or if you have any questions please contact Human Resources at 801-287-2324.

Failure to get the appropriate class CDL and endorsements may result in additional charges being incurred by the applicant. (Note: Paratransit Operators require a Class 'C' CDL permit and Passenger Endorsement. All other divisions require a Class 'B' CDL permit with Passenger Endorsement and Air Brakes.)
- I have a CDL from another state, will that be valid?
No, you will need to transfer your CDL to Utah for the applicable class and endorsements.

A criminal history does not automatically bar employment. The nature and date of the offense are taken into account. Be honest on your application and in the interview when asked about any criminal convictions.

Yes, you will have to work weekends until your seniority allows you to bid for certain days off. You may or may not have one weekend day off.

- Will I know my two days off per week ahead of time?
Yes, change day happens every four months and your days off will be the same 2 days off for the entire four month period until the next change day.
- Will UTA work around my school schedule or my second job?
Because the schedule changes frequently we are unable to accommodate schedules around other commitments.
- What can I do in between my split shifts?

Because the time between shifts is unpaid you are able to do whatever you choose until your shift starts again. Some operators choose to go home while others choose to use the work out facilities or watch a movie at the garage. You can use the transit system to go shopping or to run errands.

- Will I start and stop in the same place every day?
No, where you report varies daily and you may also start and stop at different places in the same shift.
- How does seniority and bidding determine my schedule?

Typically you can ride transit to your shifts. However, if you are the first bus out or last bus in you will need rides for those times. Transit is not available 24-7. During the training period transit may not be available due to varied training times and locations.
- What is the training schedule?
Training is typically Monday – Friday at various times, including morning or night shifts, and occasional weekend work. Trainees do not receive paid holidays and are expected to attend 100% of their training.
